The big corps of surveyors sent out by the state to look after a number of highways in this and other counties who have been busily engaged in the southern part of Madison county for some time are closing the work here and will soon enter Rockcastle county, where the work will be continued. The report will be made to the state officials and will furnish definite knowledge of the condition of the highways in this section of the state.

Messdames Ansil and Charlie Miller, of Easton, Fla., arrived Tuesday for a visit to Mrs. Jephtha D. Chennault. They are being cordially welcomed by their host of friends in Richmond.

CHURCH WORKERS ARE

PLEASED WITH CAMPAIGN

Plans and specifications for the contemplated new Second Christian church are now being completed and the members of the church board report favorable progress of the work of obtaining the necessary funds and encouragement looking toward the provision of the new edifice. When the matter of building will be taken up has not yet been decided. However, there is every reason to believe this will not be delayed. The members of the church, as well as the officers, are pleased with the manner in which the campaign work is proceeding.

COAL SITUATION; FACTS AND FIGURES

What Richmond Dealers Say
About Black Diamonds at 3-4 Cents a Pound

Coal at $15 per ton, or three-quarters of a cent a pound, is selling in Richmond about as fast as it can be procured. Yet dealers do not like the business at this price, and one of them stated Tuesday that before he would continue to sell the product at this price he would go out of the coal business. There are some who believe the price of coal will soon be reduced. One of the Richmond dealers so stated when asked about the coal situation here.

"You know," said one of them, "that a few years ago we could get all the coal we wanted for $1.75 at the mines, and the rate was $1.20, making a total cost of $2.95 to Richmond. Well, farmers and, in fact, all who wanted a carload could order it, and they did to a great extent. Now, we made a profit of $1.05 on that coal at that price. That's all we did make, and this is about the margin of our profit now. Now, I would like for the farmers, or anyone else, to get me coal, so I could make even that margin, and I would be satisfied; but instead of plenty of coal it cannot be secured with any degree of regularity at any price."

When asked about the difficulty in securing coal now, the dealer continued: "I have dealt with more than a score of producers. I can go to my office now and write 25 letters, and I daresay I will not receive more than one order, even though I state I want to be a regular customer. I will have to wait the arrival of that one and take it when it comes, at any price I am asked for it, or at the present price, although I know of big syndicates who place immense orders, having them filled at once. It is not a matter of selling coal upon the part of the producers. They report they have already sales for their entire production, and what are you going to do?"

Another said there was no assurance whatever of future shipments, no matter what the price nor the amount sold. "They pay but little attention to us, and my candid opinion is that the small dealer is almost a thing of the past," he said in regard to orders, and claimed that he could not order direct from the mines; that there was a certain amount of "red tape" to go through before it could be procured at any price, and you had to take what they sent you and be glad to get it. The movement of the state coal dealers to regulate the production or shipments, anything to assure future business, has, it is said, not developed anything very material, since there is but little attention paid to dealers.

Another said, in speaking of the manner in which the producers handled the matter, there seemed to be a disposition upon their part to sell to the big concerns, and "let the little ones ride." This, it is claimed, is one of the many facts working a hardship on the smaller cities.

As to the reason four local men were unanimous in stating they verily believed the increased shipping rates (freight) which on coal will represent perhaps a cost of 60 per cent, will be a relief, and reduce the cost of coal.

This singular statement is explained in this way: There is such a scarcity of cars, and the shipments are slow, and limited. The increase of cars, which are being manufactured, as well as the stimulus, brought about by the increase in pay to men, will add materially to the number of cars, and the commodity will be more swiftly moved. It is claimed that for the same reason, the limited car service is the cause for the recent price of grain, flour after it has been milled, etc. It is known that many mills, especially in the northwest, have been operating only a part of their capacity, owing to the fact that they are unable to get the product in, and they could not get it moved out in greater quantities if they succeeded in getting shipments to the mills with the present movement of cars, and the number of them.

CAN YOU BEAT THIS?

Murray, Ky., August 19.—Six children were born to three mothers in two hours' time at the home of Bunk Jones in this county. When Mrs. Jones became ill, she telephoned her daughter-in-law for help. Just after the latter's arrival, triplets were born to Mrs. Jones. The daughter-in-law then called Mrs. Jones' daughter for help. After the latter's arrival twins were born to Mrs. Jones, Jr., the daughter-in-law, and then a daughter was born to the third woman. Mr. Jones then called for help outside the family circle.

PROGRESS OF CITY WILL BE CONTINUED

Three Churches and Numerous Other Improvements Booked For Coming Year

While the present year has been remarkable in the way of improvements and progressiveness generally, extensive preparations are being made for the work next year, which promises to equal if not surpass the present one in the way of building especially, since there are at least three churches contemplated, two of which have workers out for funds, and with the establishment of these three, besides the beautiful new Presbyterian church now under construction, this city might very appropriately be called the city of churches.

Business building changes are also coming in for extended recognition, since there are many to be altered in many ways, and it is hinted there will be new ones during the coming year. This does not conclude the progressive spirit, for the schools of both the city and county are being extended, enlarged and improved.

The work has been drawn into the ranks of the fraternities, for there are many changes being made and contemplated with one of the most prolific years in their history in any of enrolling new members. More commodious quarters are being sought by some, while others, the Improved Order of Red Men, are awaiting a time propitious when they will purchase a site and erect their own building, after the fashion of several other lodges of the city.

The progressive bug seemed to have inoculated the public generally, since with the establishment of paved streets citizens in other portions of the city are crying for improvements, and these have been graciously promised by representatives of the city council, and they will deliver the goods, for a part of the goods have been ordered, and are to be delivered to the city in the near future. This work will not be confined to the city, for the county roads have never received more attention than at the present time. Railway men attest there is a greater quantity of building material coming into Richmond than many cities twice the size.

DISEASE CLOSING FEW COUNTY SCHOOLS

A close watch is being maintained over the health conditions of the schools of Madison county, owing to the prevalence of diseases apparent in various sections of this and other states, the Owensville school being closed down owing to an epidemic of diphtheria. There is fever reported in other sections to a great degree, which is said to have cut down the attendance. However, no serious inroads have been made along this line in this immediate section. There are a number of cases of measles and kindred afflictions in Madison county schools, but aside from this sickness is not reported to any extent to cause apprehension. However, instructors are cautioned and are vigilant relative to the appearance of any disease that might appear with great rapidity.

Eldridge Wagers, who purchased a number of cattle from R. C. Westfall at Mt. Sterling, and later assisted in the latter's apprehension, it developing the transaction was not in accordance with the law, Westfall having exercised a ruse to obtain possession of the cattle, and had them brought to his farm near Richmond Wednesday evening. The sale to the Richmond man was accompanied by a shady transaction upon the part of Westfall, which terminated in his being arrested here later and returned to Mt. Sterling.

HARDING TALKS ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

(By Associated Press)

Marion, O., Aug. 19.—Senator Harding declared today that suffrage of American women would be specially welcomed by the republicans in the coming election because of "the great moral and social reform recently achieved, is menaced by the covert purpose of our opponents to attack it." He predicted the voting women would stand with the republicans through the realization that it had led in achieving social betterment, while the democratic party "notoriously refused to enforce the platform policy."

"I look upon the enfranchisement of women as an accomplishment rated with our achievement of independence, our preservation of union, emancipation of slaves, and our contribution in the world war to rescue civilization itself."

Some Souvenirs!

Chorus Girls, Too
New York, Aug. 19.—James Shevlin, Federal Prohibition Enforcement Agent, Wednesday started an investigation to ascertain whether or not there really was a "tickle" in the little souvenir bottles passed out at the opening performance of a show at the Manhattan theatre.

While singing an encore to a number entitled "We've Got Something," the chorus girls passed down the aisles carrying baskets filled with tiny bottles, labeled "whisky." Overcoming timidity a few in the audience opened their souvenirs, sniffed, tasted, smacked their lips and gave exclamations and applause that left no doubt as to their opinion of the refreshment.

Two prohibition agents were sent to the theatre shortly before noon to see Arthur Hammerstein who had charge of the production. Mr. Shevlin said that he was determined to make "as much trouble as possible" for the management if he found that the prohibition laws had been violated.

"If they think this is funny press-agent work," he added, "we'll show them that they cannot make the law ridiculous."

Kansas crops are said to be even greater than anticipated a month ago when it was predicted they would be the greatest in ten years.

Five thousand immigrants are getting into New York daily, it is said.

Human Torch Falls

Dead At Pond's Brink

Bowling Green, Ky., Aug. 19.—His clothing afire, Robert Fulton, oil driller, blazed a trail of fire through the darkness when he ran toward a pond and sank to the ground lifeless, almost at the brink of the water. His 600-yard race against death failed.

Mr. Fulton, 55 years old, of Moberly, Mo., shouted "everybody run!" then waited too long himself when a gas flow ignited as a gusher was struck on the Whitaker lease seven miles from Bowling Green Wednesday night. When his clothing took fire he dashed toward the pond but collapsed just before he reached his goal. He was dying when his associates arrived.

NEGRO ROBBER LOCKS

BOY CLERK IN ICE BIN
Lexington, Ky., August 19.—An unidentified negro entered the grocery store of Charles Ott yesterday afternoon, bound and gagged a boy clerk and robbed the cash drawer and safe of $106.56.

Hugh Buchanan, 16-year-old clerk, was locked in the meat refrigerator, where he was found unconscious several hours later. The negro held up the boy with a pistol.

The store had been left in charge of the boy for the afternoon. The negro went in and asked for a sack of flour. The boy climbed a ladder to get the flour from a shelf.

"Wait a minute," the negro ordered. The boy looked around to find a pistol pointed at him. The negro bound him with a rope, tied the boy's own apron around his face and then placed him in the ice box.

Three hours later the grocer entered the store to find it deserted and the safe and cash drawer rifled. When the boy was released from the refrigerator he was unconscious, but soon revived. His condition is not serious.
